From our Extra of Yesterday. Arrival of the Brig "Crimea."

A CAMP SCENE.—At one time we were en-camped in a little place in Virginia, which, like all the towns in that part, was entirely desetted by all the inhabitants, who could by horse, foot, or crutch power, leave. Our first Lieutenaut was disconsolate, as he

Our first Lieutenant was disconsolate, as he had fondly hoped to find some beautiful secesh nymph with whom he might carry on a flirtation. He was a great admirer of the fair sex, and the slight of a petticoat in those forlorn and lonely regions, was a great piece of good fortune.

Well, one day he was lolling in front of his tent, dreaming of the girl, or rather the girls.

tent, dreaming of the girl, or rather the girls he left behind him, accidentally cast his eyes over a neighboring meadow, where, as luck would, have it, appeared an unmistakable crinoline of full circumference—with the would have it, appeared an unmistakable crinoline of full circumference—with the dress raised enough to show a clean petticoat and white stockings. Scizing a field glass he gased long at the vision.

"By George, those are fine legs!" exclaimed our amorous Lieutenant.

"Mike," he continued, turning to a son of Erin, "go, and follow that girl, and see how she looks, and where she goes."

Mike, glad to get an excuse to leave the camp, of course made no objection, and het Lieutenant passing him through the guard, he set out on his mission. He made the best of his excuse, and was absent for some three hours, while all the time our Lieutenant was in a torturing state of anxiety. So, immediately upon Mike's re-entering camp he was accosted by our 'first.'

"Well, Mike."

"Well, Mike."

- " Was she handsome?"
 "That's a matter of taste, sure, as the old
- "That's a matter of taste, sure, as the old wom—"

 "What kind of eyes, Mike?"

 "Blaca, sur; black and big!"

 "Ah, that is good. I am fond of large black eyes," remarked our model Lieutenant.

 Sure then, I can give yees two, as nately as any other man!?

 "Certainly, certainly, Mike—a good joke—but her tee h. Mike?"

 "Like pearls, your honor,"

 "Excelent! excellent!"

 "An' lips blooming—like a rose," continued Mike.
- Mike.
 "Superb! and her nose, Mike?"
- "Super!! and her nose, Mike?"
 "Aqui lae, sur; aquiline reversed."
 "Ah. I don't understand; but never mind; and her hair, Mike?"
 "Dark, sur; dark and wa vy."
 "Good again; and her age?"
 "Well, sur, somewhere nigh unto twenty."
 "Where did the little darling go, my boy?"
 "Right beyant the meadow, in a frame house, sur."

house, sur."

"All right, Mike. I am delighted. Mike, take something to drink; there is some of my best old Bourbon, and only my friends taste that whisky."

"Thank yees! here's to your honor's new sweetheart. May yees become better acquainted."

"Never fear that Michael."

Never fear that, Michael my boy. Was sho a brunette?"
"No, sir, 'she was a nnger, sure,'" said Mike, coolly, as he drained the bottle.

Opening of the Legislature

The Legislature was opened yesterday for the dispatch of business, and was told in the Governor's speech that " the requirements of the public service have rendered it necessary to call you together at this time after an unu sually brief respite from your labors." What remarkable combination of events have made it "necessary" we fail to discover in the Speech. We presume that we shall have to find the causes elsewhere, and shall have to wait the develorment of the ulterior objects had in view in summoning the Legis lature for the dispatch of business so early in the year. The Government measures which we are promised-possibly threatened with-are the Estimates, Esquimalt Railway Act. Subsidy for a mail steamer between Victoria and Comax, the long-mooted ap pointed of a Provincial Geologist, some encouragement to engage in our fisheries, and Small Debts' Act, with some other legal bills. We can perceive nothing very remark able in these measures; nothing to warrant the prorogation of the Legislature for so short a period, nor to excuse the summons to meet for the despatch of business-the passage of the Estimates for instance—just as the lawful On TUESDAY January 6th, 1863. period has arrived to dissolve the present As sembly and summon another. If we glance through the Crown questions in the Speech, questions over which the Assembly has no control, nor won't try to obtain centrol-we find that an English firm-Messrs. Stewart, Meldrum & Co. intend to make a settlement a Qualseeno or Koskeemo, on the North West Fancy Woollen Shirts, Drawers ; Coast of the Island, for fishing, coal-mining, Neck-Ties, Scarfs, Hosiery, &c. and lumbering purposes. But the Assembly and Council have nothing to do with the question; at least the Governor, as the Crown's representative, may give the land away, wh ther those bodies like it or notwhether they can agree to his proposition or not, it will be done as he wills. The carly session-the extra session-the wonder of all wonders in our local polities, is due not to a desire to see the public business dispatched early in the year; but to use the Rump of the Misrepresentatives to take a powerful means for the redress of public Oil Cloth; grievances out of the hands of the new Assembly that is to be. The Government want to get the supplies for '63 passed. If they can get that job done, the country may whistle for reform.

The Government feels that the country is against it. It is persuaded that the popular vote, if fairly and honestly cast, would elect men who would never consent to pass sup plies, except reasonable answers in accordance with immemorial British custom were returned to their petition for the redress of public grievances. The expedient-and with such objects in view, dishonest expedient-is resorted to, to have the incoming Assembly shorn of its power. Let any one leave ou the estimates, and an adjournment over the holidays, rather than prorogation, would have met every end referred to in the speech. But by means of protogation, under the guise of public necessity, the estimates doctored to suit administration objects-the estimates that ought to be passed by the next Assembly -are to be voted now. If the Assembly did not expire so soon by act of limitation, there might be credit due to the administration for arging the public business through. As it is, we regret that we cannot award the credit for merit, that might otherwise be the case We hold that the Executive is deceiving the public by a show of attending with unusua promptitude to public affairs. The assembling of a new Legislature, like the first session of Parliament in the reign of a new monarch, is a period for instituting reforms, correcting the abuses of the past, and causing the governmental machinery to work more smoothly in the grooves. So far as possible, this power is to be weakened by pass ing the supplies in advance. The Executive seems to think that by letting enough supplies into the Government dock to float the ship of state for one year, matters will be made all right. Yet it is only putting the evil day afar off. The supplies will only keep the hulk rotting in the dock till a new Assembly orders arvey of the hull prior to breaking it up. With what useful measures that may be referred to in the speech, every sensible man must concur. But to be cheated for a year by the political chicanery of the government out of the exercise of the highest and most powerful prerogative an Assembly can enjoy, is a deed against which the popular will revolts, and for which satisfaction musbe sought at the polls.

RE-OPENING OF THE LEGISLATURE The fourth session of the second Parliament of the Colony was opened yesterday at 2:15 p. m. The following is

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH:

HONORABLE GENTLEMEN OF THE LEGISLATIVE

The requirements of the public service The requirements of the public service have rendered it necessary to call you again together at this time, after an unusually brief respite from your legislative duties. The business which I have to press upon your attention is the consideration of the Estimates incended for the service of the current year; and also of certain Acts for enabling companies properly constituted, to acquire the land necessary for their operations:

The importance of such measures in their present bearing on the employment of labor, three months' imprisonment.

present bearing on the employment of labor. and on the prospective interests of the col-ony is so well known and so generally recog-nised that I feel assured no unnecessary delay will occur in their passage through the Legislature!!! nent will have to extend its foster ing care to the recently formed settlements at Cowichan and Comax, to provide for their protection and security, and to furnish such aid as may be deemed advisable for the secular and religious instruction of the settlers i It affords me great satisfaction to state that the returns received from the Land Office show that there is a rapidly increasing demand in the colony for the acquisition of public land, the areas conveyed by sale, and occupied under the Pre-emption Act, without purchase, for the year 1862, being what 190 purchases. about 90 per cent, in excess of the quantities about 90 per cent, in excess of the quantities Bold and otherwise conveyed in 1861.

I may also allude to the gratifying circumstance that a highly respectable English association is about to form a settlement at Quatseene, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. They propose to open mines of coal, establish fisheries, to embark largely in the export of deals and ship's soars; and in rative employment for capital I will make no comment on the character

I will make no comment on the character of an enterprise of such obvious importance to the progress of the colony. I shall not fail to extend to it all the protection and encouragement in my power, and I trust it may prove completely successful, and fully realize the hopes of its spirited projectors.

I will again call the attention of the Legislature to the extent importance of prayiding islature to the great importance of providing for a geological survey of the Colony—a measure well calculated to develope its true interests and resources. The mountain ranges which now so unprofitably occupy a large portion of the Island, are, with good reason supposed to abound in valuable minerals. conducted scientific explorations, a new era will dawn upon the Colony, and sources of wealth will be laid open which must eventually place it at the summit of national pros-Assistance will be asked from the House

The estimates for the year will shortly be laid before you, wherein I have provided for the various services alluded to, and for other services not herein specially noticed. Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council and of the House of Assembly:

A bill to legalize the collection of small debts, and to reduce the costs, and modify the present procedure, will, together with other measures, be introduced and submitted, in the course of the session, for your con-His Honor Chief Justice Cameron de-

Mr. Cocker gave notice that at the next meeting he would introduce a bill to prohibit

Our informant, himshops being shut and work suspended. The self an inmate of the house, declares that he called upon the police in the first place to have her removed to the hospital, but was referred by them to the City Inspec-tor, whose province as Sanatory officer it was, spirits forming a procession at 12 o'clock a. m., headed by fife and drums, and marching through the principal streets of the city, to direct the removal of such cases as that referred to. To Mr. Colquboun the complaincalled in their tour at the leading hotels referred to. To Mr. Columnoun the complain-ant states he next applied, but that g-ntle-man declined interfering. The question now remains to be determined upon whom does the duty devolve of acting as officer of health? Before taking their leave of the soveral landlords, they tendered three rousing cheers for the hos; itality with which they were received and treated. Groans were given for any unfortunate wight who did not freely dispense his champagne with a liberal hand. Before breaking up the procession got out of order, and instead of keeping to the side-walks, the members were seen reeling in all directions, evidently under the influence of the flowing nectar, which they had imbibed too freely. after giving three hearty cheers for "any other man" who would give them a drink.
During the day, there were comparatively very few people to be seen out of doors, the weather being excessively boisterous with copious rain fulling, rendering excursionising anything but agreeable. The billiard saloons in the city, in consequence, did a roaring trade. In the evening crowds of people attended the theatre and music halls, and as usual in holiday times, there were a few pugilistic combats amongst the audience, but nothing of serious import occurred to mar

TURNED UP .- We are happy to state that Edward Byron, the Esquimalt boatman whose supposed loss we mentioned on Thursday has turned up alive and well after a whole chapter of accidents. Byron is an old son of Neptune, and, in veritable sailor fashion.spun us a long yarn on Thursday evening about his adventures and hair-breadth escapes after the accident to his boat on Monday night. It would, however, occupy too much space to give the whole of the bold seaman's interest-ing story, but the substance of it is, that Ed-ward, having a taste for company and some-thing to drink besides, set out through the woods in their pursuit. His intention was to woods in their pursuit. His intention was to make for his old haunts at Esquimalt, but the night being dark and dreary, he missed stays and finally landed at a port in the vicinity of this city. Here he met with some congenial spirits, of what sex he did not say, but they were so agreeable that Edward could not disengage himself from them till Thursday evening, when, hearing that he was lost, reported himself at a favorite resort for seamen in this himself at a favorite resort for seamen in this city—the police office—and then started upon a cruise through the town—a hero in his own imagination, and evidently well satisfied at the notoriety he has obtained through the Fox HUNT .- The fox, or paper hunt, advertised to come off yesterday, had to be postponed in consequence of the severity of the weather, and sudden illness of the MauFRIDAY, 2nd Jan.

Seventh day—10 miles—Camped last night near Pensing Lake. Messrs. McDonald and Mauning have pre-empted all the good land here and built a house to reside in. SMALL Pox.—It has been stated to us that an Indian squaw cohabiting with a white man, in a house on the corner of Humboldt rolling. boration, through the mayor, that the police had no authority to act in such cases since the passage of the Incorporation Act, and on the civic authorities rested the responsibility of regulating the Sanatory condition of the city. This certainly is not the time, when a disense so infectious in its nature as small pox is rife amongst us, that there should be any repudiation of their responsibility either by the officers of the police force or Town Cenneil. A matter of such vital importance to the well-being of the city cannot be allowed to remain in its present unsatisfactory state, and we hope it will be taken up and settled by the authorities immediately. In the meantime the patient should be removed to the hospital.

There are now about sixteen members, appropriately separated into cantori and decant, each division being respectively led by two excellents. tween the since and 23 mines below it. Heavy timber—no grass.

Fourteenth day—We traveled one mile when we reached Neweliff. Mr. Hood has erected a trading vost or store house at this point. We here engaged Indians with their heavy to the first salmon. canoe, who brought us to the first salmon cance, who brought us to the first saimon dam, near the mouth of the river (distance 30 miles) in four hours. Men who traveled the trail from Newcliff to the mouth of the river describe it as passing over a thickly wooded but level valley. The trail crosses the river ten miles below Newcliff. Mr. Adam Ross has built a house there and keeps the farm. There is another house at Nawhen two benultial anthems were renearsed, we may fairly say that such a volunteer choir would be a credit to any congregation. The Choir fund is established for defraying the cost of new music, and the expense of having the various parts copied.

The dam Ross has built a house there and keeps the ferry. There is another house at Nacontloon lake about 15 or 20 miles cast of the MR. R. CRANSHAW'S BENEFIT.—The benefit of this favorite actor will take place this evening, when the performance will commence with the play of "The Gamester." Miss Mitchell taking the part of Mrs. Beverly, and Mr. Waldren, that of Mr. Beverly. Max Irwin will appear in the interlude and give his inimitable Ethiopian eccentricities—to be followed by a new comedy, entitled "Caudde in Caribon"—written expressly for representation here, by Mr. Cranshaw, him self. If what we have heard about it be correct, there is little doubt the audience will be thrown into fits by the raciness and humor

The whole distance from the Slide to Fort ships of heavy burthen can reach, about 54 miles. We had no other means than our experience in traveling, for calculating the distance; but I think we are not far astray. As my opinion of this route has been so

As my opinion of this route has been so frequently asked I must say that I entertain a good opinion of it, for the following reasons:

First.—That the actual trail can be much shortened. From what I have learned from others and noticed of the country I believe that a route can be made which shall be a very few miles if any, ever 200 from the very few miles, if any, over 200 from the mouth of Quesnelle River to the head of Beetick Arm.

Secondly—That the soil is well adapted for wagon roads, being chiefly gravel and along the trail, except from the Slide to the Arm.

Fourthly—That if the road was opened, provisions could be drawn upon sleds during two or three months of winter cheaper than they can be drawn in summer by this or any other senter.

Fifthly-Packers would be satisfied, so they told me, with 30 cents a pound for goods from the sea to Vanwinkle. That is much from the sea to vanwinkle. That is much cheaper than any other route, and I have no doubt next season even less would satisfy them. From Victoria steamers would easily make the trip in two days to the terminus of the route, and in ten or twelve days from that, goods might be laid down at Vanwinkle. I am satisfied from my experience and observation of this route that it is practicable and will have the effect of cheapening pro-visions at the mines next season and will re alise fully the expectations formed about it."

VICTORIA THEATRE - Last evening the hisorical drama of the "Carpenter of Ronen," ras produced at the Theatre, Miss Mitchell was produced at the Theatre, Miss Mitchell appearing in the great character of Madelon, with Mr. Waldron as Marteau. The part of De Saubigne was taken by Mr. Cranshaw, and that of Antoine, by Mr. Thayer. The interest of the piece was exceedingly well sustained throughout. The new scenery, painted by Messrs, Reaves & Wilson, was quite an improvement. These two gentles. improvement. These two gentlequite an improvement. Inese two gentle-men, who are actors, and just out from Eng-land, then appeared as Othello and lago, re-spectively, and performed the third act of Shakspeare's great tragedy, and played it remarkably well. Max Irwin's excentrici-ties, and the "Secret," turnished fun enough for the rest of the evening. AMATEUR THEATRICALS - Much merrimen was created in the Police Court, vesterday against Walter Simms, an old settler, for fu-rious riding. Sergeant Blake swore to his having goaded a young borse he was riding almost to madness, thereby jeopardising his own neck and the safety of the bystanders. The defendant, who appeared in court very drunk, urged that though he had been in hai colony 13 years, he had only been in jail twice during the time. He further said that he had only been showing off the talents of his horse, after the manner of the donkeys his horse, after the manner of the donkey at the theatre, and challenged the magistrate, "or any other man," to display the sain to better advantage. He was 'remanded to prison for one day, to enable him to become sober.
